ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR JUNIOR WEEK

'Varsity Baseball Team to Play U. V. M. and Springfield

EVENTS TO START MAY 11

Fifty Prep Schools Invited to Compete in Track Meet

With yesterday's statement by the Chairman of the Junior Week Committee regarding the nature of the work now being undertaken by that body together with the announcement of a tentative program for the week there is abundant evidence of the committee's resolve to make this year's event stand out among others of its kind. This year will mark the inauguration of a wider scheme of publicity than has ever before been attempted, the principal medium through which the committee hopes to draw a record attendance of sub-freshmen from preparatory schools in this and several of the neighboring states.

The first of a series of three or more letters to high and preparatory schools in Vermont, Massachusetts, New York and New Hampshire were sent last week to nearly fifty communities. The information contained was largely introductory in nature being addressed to the executives of the various schools, and gave a brief outline of the program for the three days, beginning May 12th. The letter will be followed by others giving more detailed information, in the near future. The committee is further relying upon alumni cooperation to secure an unusually large attendance this year.

Some New Features

The program outlined yesterday follows the general plan of those observed in recent years. Festivities will commence Wednesday evening, as is customary, with prize speaking contests although classes will not end for the week until noon of the following day. On Thursday morning, however, a special effort will be made to have alumni and other guests attend Chapel and, if possible, certain classes. Provision will be made for the accommodation of all of the visitors in the several fraternity houses and dormitories. Following is the program as tentatively announced:

Wed. 8:00 P. M. Prize Speaking Contests

Thurs. 3:00P. M. Baseball— Middlebury vs. U. V. M.
8:00 P. M. Combined Musical Clubs' Concert

Fri. 9:00 A. M. Trials Interscholastic Track Meet
3:00 P. M. Baseball— Middlebury vs. Springfield
8:30 P. M. Junior Prom

Sat. 9:00 A. M. Finals Interscholastic Track Meet
3:00 P. M. Intercollegiate Track or Baseball Contest
5:00 P. M. Freshman-Sophomore Rope-Pull
8:30 P. M. Junior Play—"The Private Secretary"

Band to Give Concerts

An added feature of this year's Junior Week will be the concerts by the College Band whose numbers are to be augmented by several out-of-town musicians. The Band will play each afternoon on Porter Field. Further announcement is made of the selection of the Williams College Orchestra for the Junior Prom Friday evening.

U. V. M. TO DEBATE 'VARSITY TO-NIGHT

Middlebury Affirmative Team to Compete in Mead Chapel

SUBJECT: IMMIGRATION

Negative Meets St. Lawrence at Canton To-night

Middlebury's affirmative team will debate the negative team of the University of Vermont to-night at eight o'clock in the Mead Memorial Chapel upon the question, Resolved; "That European Immigration into the United States be further restricted by Federal action." The negative team of Middlebury will meet the affirmative team of St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y., at the same time.

Frist Triangular Debate

This is the first time in the history of the College that a triangular debate has been attempted and marks the reviving of debating relations with the University of Vermont. Last year a dual debate was held with St. Lawrence University upon the subject of the settlement of disputes between employer and employees. Middlebury won at home, while the negative team lost to St. Lawrence at Canton. This year the debate will involve three colleges, the same night, upon the same subject. The three debates will be held at Canton, Burlington, and Middlebury. St. Lawrence's negative goes to Burlington, Vermont's negative comes here, while Middlebury's negative goes to Canton. Thus all the negative teams debate away from home, while all the affirmative teams will debate at their home college.

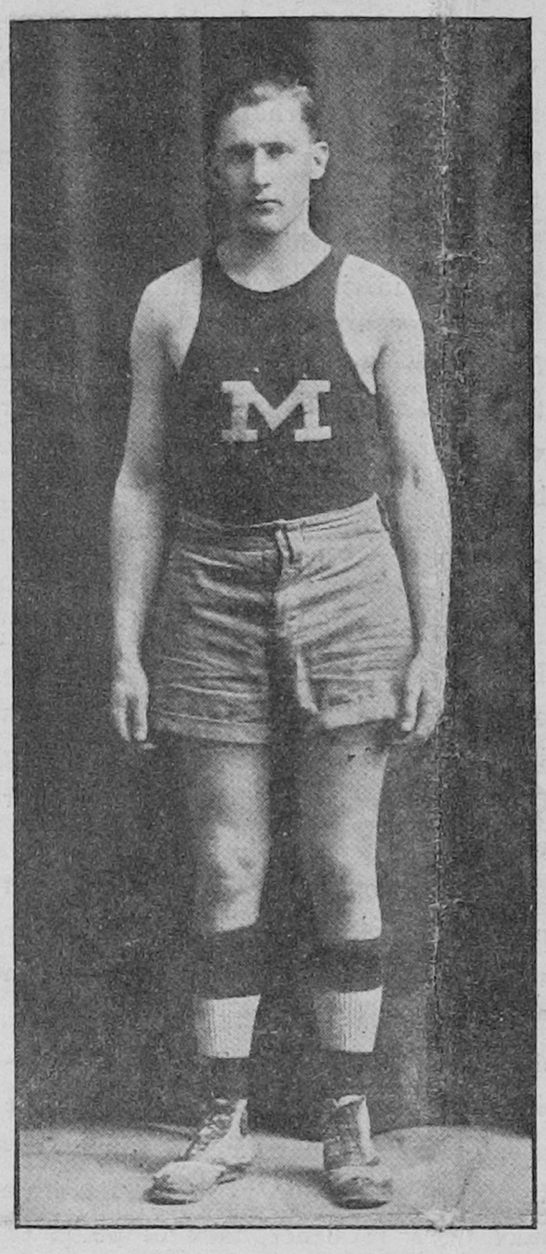
Personnel of Teams

The affirmative team which debates at Middlebury, is composed of the following men, who will speak in the order named: E. T. Austin '24, D. W. Riley '24, Murray Adams, '23, captain, and R. J. Darby, '21, alternate. They debate with the Vermont team: F. S. Pease '21, B. E. Green '21, G. L. Best '21, captain, and L. J. Doolim, alternate, who will speak in the above order. The negative team which goes to St. Lawrence is composed of the following men: H. H. Eddy '23, captain, L. E. Klimm '24, D. H. Parry '24, and L. W. McFee '21, alternate. The following men will act as judges of the debate at Middlebury:—Fred M. Butler, Judge of the Vermont Superior Court, of Rutland; Mr. H. O. Carpenter, President of the Rutland Savings Bank of Rutland; and Mr. J. T. Cushing, Editor of "The Messenger" of St. Albans, Vt.

The coaching has been in charge of Professors Abbott, Davison, Kline and McDonald. Professor Davison will go to Canton, N. Y., with the negative team. The debating arrangements were directed by J. H. Noble '21.

Resolution Adopted by the Student Body March 10

"RESOLVED: THAT the three lower classes be seated until the Seniors pass out of the Chapel; the two under classes remain seated until the Juniors have passed out; and the Freshmen remain seated until the Sophomores passed out. Note, that "Out of the Chapel" shall be taken to mean that the last person shall have entered the vestibule."



LEONARD CAPTAIN 1921 COURT FIVE

New Leader Member of 'Varsity for Two Years—Four Letter Men Available Next Season

Charles L. ("Chuck") Leonard Jr. '23 of Poultney, was elected basketball captain for next year at a meeting of the letter men in that sport Thursday.

Leonard matriculated in 1919 from Troy Conference Academy where he won his letter in three sports. He was a member of the football squad here in 1919 and won his letter in basketball last year. He played quarterback on the 1920 football team, and was a star member of the 'Varsity basketball five during the past season. He is a member of the Chi Psi Fraternity and of Sages and Delta Tau.

For next year's team will be available four of the six letter men of last season, Timberman, Lacy, Leonard and Hardy in addition to several promising candidates from the two lower classes.

SERVICE BAND HEARS MISSION COUNCIL MEMBER

Rev. William S. Beard Outlines Field For Welfare Work

The Rev. William S. Beard, a member of the Home Missions Council, who is visiting the different colleges as a representative of the Council, gave an informal talk before the members of the Home Service Band, Friday afternoon, in which he outlined the entire field open to students intending to engage in that sort of work. He also gave some practical advice and suggestions about summer positions. Friday afternoon and Saturday morning Mr. Beard had personal conferences with students interested in welfare work and with students in doubt as to their choice of a vocation.

1922 TO PRESENT PLAY BY HAWTREY

"The Private Secretary" Offers Three Charater Parts for Men

FOUR WOMEN IN THE CAST

Play Has an Action Plot Based Upon Mistaken Identity

About forty juniors attended the preliminary meeting of tryouts for the 1922 class play held in the Greek Room, Monday afternoon at five o'clock. Professor William S. Burrage, who will direct the rehearsals, addressed the aspirants, who were equally divided among the men and women's colleges, describing briefly the principle characters in the play and making assignments and appointments for the selection of the caste. The choice of the principle players will be made before the beginning of vacation and a notice of the selection will be posted on the bulletin board in Old Chapel to-morrow morning.

"The Private Secretary" Chosen

After several weeks of search and after reviewing scores of suggested plays the Junior Play Committee and Professor Burrage reached the conclusion that "The Private Secretary", a farcial comedy by Charles Hawtrey, offered the best opportunities for development. Mr. Hawtrey's play, which is in three acts, was originally produced in Cambridge, England in 1883 and had its first London performance in 1884. In this latter presentation the late Sir H. Beerbohm Tree, the famous Shakespearian actor known particularly for his wonderful portrayal of Fallstaff, played the title role. "The Private Secretary" is a very popular comedy and has been played by several well-known actors including Clive and William Gillette, with great success and for long runs. The latest presentation of note was in a revival at the Copley Theater in Boston where the play was received enthusiastically.

Four Character Parts

The play offers rather more opportunity for male characterization than for women, there being three excellent leads for men to only one equal opportunity for the women. The title role is that the Rev. Robert Spaulding, the private secretary, who is a simple, timid, eccentric person. Spaulding is the butt of all the intrigues of the play and is deceived and confused by everyone in the caste. Almost as eccentric is the character of the middle-aged governess and spiritualist, Miss Ashford, who combines a very sentimental nature with unlimited credulity.

A pleasing contrast to these two odd figures are those of the vigorous, irascible uncle Cattermole whose "liver has been ruined by the tropic heat of India' and of the long-suffering London tailor whose social aspirations permit him to waive his claims as creditor in favor of an invitation to a "gentlemen's" house party.

Story One of Action

The play, revolving about the eccentric personality of the so-called private secretary, a simple-minded young clergyman of the Church of England, is unusually full of action and involves many farcial situations. The comedy involves a case of mistaken identity. Mr. Marsland, an English country gentleman, engages a young clergyman to come down to his country place as his private secretary. Mr. Marsland

To You Mr. Undergraduate

It is of slight consequence whether you live in North Thetford or Canajoharie. To-morrow you are going home for the holidays and the prospect of spending ten days in company with your families and old friends while at the same time relieved from the strain of academic worries, makes you kindly disposed toward the world in general. In such a mood you can and will do much toward booming the interests of Alma Mater in your home community.

Within the next few days make a point of visiting your prep school. Mix with the boys, especially those in the two upper classes. Tell them about Middlebury, about Junior Week; get them interested to the extent of sending representatives to the Interscholastic Track meet. Get their names and when you return to College give them to the Dean that he may send catalogues, bulletins and other literature to keep alive their interest.

A constant source of pride and invigoration to this institution has been the record of upright and useful citizenship reflected in the lives of the thousands who have gone forth from these halls. Middlebury now demands just such men to fill the rolls of incoming classes,—men of character, vigor and determination, men who are always ready to pitch in and put their shoulder to the wheel for the College, a type which is invariably listed on the asset side of the balance sheet.

The service which any college renders an individual student during his four-year course is almost incalculable for its far-reaching and enduring qualities. See to it that some part of your vacation is spent in serving Middlebury.

Debating for Women

To-night's triangular debate with St. Lawrence University and Vermont recalls a suggestion made by Dr. Thomas in Chapel not long ago, concerning the possibility of a debating club for women.

Organizations of this sort exist in nearly all of the larger colleges for women. The fact that we have in Middlebury a debating club for men, does not necessarily preclude the women from the same form of activity. The greatest handicap which a woman entering upon her life work, whatever it may be is reticence, lack of poise, or difficulty of expression. Ideas are valuable, but may not be realized until expressed. Public speaking demands self-confidence of manner, clear ennunciation, and rhetorical accuracy, all unquestionable assets to the college student who is shortly to take his or her place among men and women of affairs.

How many women of the College could, upon occasion, deliver a creditable impromptu toast or address, and what is more painful than to be called upon for such an address, conscious of one's inadequacy? On the other hand, the girl who can address a meeting without faltering, or can deliver clever impromptu toasts without demur, gains a certain enviable prestige among her fellow students.

While a great deal of such ability is inherent, nevertheless through the rigid discipline which training for debate offers, a large measure of it may be acquired. It has always been expected that the average girl of college age should be versed to some extent in domestic arts, but in this day of growing independence among women, development of personality is becoming even more importnat than culinary skill.

In every respect, would not such an organization be deemed quite as worth while and worthy of support as some of the existing minor organizations which nevertheless call for much time and attention?

Slips Like This Happen in the Best Regulated Colleges

Mr. S. K. Ratcliffe, well known English journalist, opened the Marshall Woods lectures in Sayles Hall before a large audience Thursday night. He chose for his subject, "The Press and Public Opinion" which was warmly received. He will also give the third lecture. Mr. Vincent and Amy Lowell will give the second and fourth, respectfully.

Follow the Leader!

The adoption of the new traffic regulations in Mead Chapel has given rise to many perplexing problems of which, by no means the least is the difficulty arising from the fact that the pews are so inconveniently arranged that it is practically impossible for the under classes, without excessive confusion and twisting, to observe just when the upper classes have passed through the doorways into the vestibule. We challenge your kind attention to view the whole proceeding from a point of vantage in the balcony. When the seniors seem convinced that the choir—and, after them, the faculty—have all left the platform, they rise rather uncertainly and move majestically down the aisles. Meanwhile the juniors twist about and with much undue confusion and unnecessary motion they gape at their receeding persons to ascertain the precise moment when the last senior has passed through the magic portals into the vestibule. Then in wild confusion the juniors rise and dash madly from the chapel leaving the sophomores to imitate their previous actions and after them, the freshmen.

But this is not mere destructive criticism! Indeed, we have three separate and distinct constructive suggestions to offer in re: the solution of this present difficulty. In the first place, we might advise that the stationary pews give place to seats of more modern construction. They might be supplanted either by the revolving stools common to our large department stores like Cushmans, or, by the popular form of chairs employed in Mr. Boulia's and Mr. Trudeau's tonsorial parlors. The introduction of such contrivances would reduce the twisting to a minimum single half-turn per person.

Secondly, we might suggest the installation of the Block System so successful in modern railroading. As the last senior crossed the threshold into the vestibule, an electric contact would be made releasing a signal conveniently located, thus giving the cue to the following classes. This device has the additional advantage of suggestion to the Rutland R. R. of the value of the Block System.

And lastly, we have a proposition, which our natural reticence almost forbids proposing, namely the equipment of each individual with a handy pocket periscope of our own design.

We respectfully offer these suggestions to your kindly attention.

KALEIDOSCOPE COPY GOES TO PRINTER BEFORE EASTER

First Shipment of Year Books May 1st—Balance of 375 in Ten Days

Work on the 1922 Kaleidoscope has been progressing rapidly, and it is expected that all copy will be in the hands of the printer before the Easter vacation, as practically all of the material has now been handed in. The first shipment of books has been promised by the Tuttle Company for May 1st, the balance following within ten days. Provision has been made for three hundred and seventy-five copies and in addition The Kaleidoscope board has been soliciting alumni subscriptions.

An especially attractive book is being prepared, introducing several innovations. Hitherto it has been the custom to have a small snapshot beneath the picture of each junior class member. These have been replaced this year by cartoons made by Margaret Dickinson '22 and L. R. Hayward '23. The size of all cuts has also been standardized and for the heading a picture of Old Chapel Row is being used. For the junior class copies a special cover is under consideration.

At the present writing there still remain seven members of the junior class and fourteen among the other three classes who have not redeemed their original pledge for copies.

The book has been dedicated to Professor William Wesley McGilton who was for twenty-eight years head of the Chemistry department at Middlebury.

CHANGES IN MUSIC HALL; PLAN WEEKLY CONCERTS

Under the direction of Professor Hathaway, director of the department of music, extensive alterations and improvements are being carried on in Music Hall. A practice room has been constructed in the rear of the building and fitted up with an instrument for pianoforte students, and the main hall is being entirely redecorated.

Owing to the rapid growth of the department, Professor Hathaway will be assisted by Senorita de Onate, a graduate of the Madrid Conservatory of Music and now engaged in the Spanish Department as instructress.

On each Tuesday evening of the week until further notice, a Victrola concert will be given in Music Hall, from 7:30 until 8:30 o'clock. The object of these concerts is to enable all students interested in music to enjoy the large record library of the music department.

The averages of the three men for the season were as follows: Draper—90 per cent, May 88.6 per cent, Watson 86.4 per cent.

Announcement was made of a recommendation from the Athletic Council to the Board of Trustees, authorizing a 20-game basketball schedule for next year, not more than 13 of which are to be played out of town.

JUNIORS CLINCH INTERCLASS TITLE

Defeat Freshmen 14-9 In Thursday's Deciding Game of Series—Reinbrecht Stars

Final Standing

	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Juniors	7	5	2	.714
Freshmen	8	5	3	.625
Sophomores	7	4	3	.571
Seniors	6	0	6	.000

A 14-9 victory over the first year men gave the junior five the inter-class basketball championship in the last of the season's games Thursday in McCullough Gymnasium. The late season come-back staged by the upper class team gave a thrilling finish to the series which started out to be a walk-away for the yearling team, especially when the title depended upon the outcome of last week's game. The junior players were seen at a better advantage than their opponents Thursday but in no sense did this detract from the excitement evoked by the contest.

Both teams guarded closely and the amount of the final scores testified to the effectiveness of rear court men's work. Reinbrecht was the individual high scorer of the game, making four baskets from the floor and proving a mainstay in the junior defense. Ross and Robinson, the junior guards, got in some exceptionally fine playing, the former accounting for a basket from the floor early in the second period. Captain Lane had hard luck in shooting but scored two points for his team on free tries.

Cortiss and Savage, playing the rear court position on the opposing team, gave stiff opposition to the junior forwards. Ferry, right forward for the freshmen, scored two baskets from the floor, Axtel being credited with one.

The summary:

Juniors (14)		Freshmen (9)
Crew, lf.,	rg.,	Cortiss
Lane, rf.,	lg.,	Savage
Reinbrecht, c.	c.,	Wilson
Ross, rg.,	lf.,	Axtell
Robinson, lg.,	rf.,	Ferry

Baskets from floor—Juniors: Reinbrecht (4), Crew, Ross; Freshmen: Ferry (2), Axtell, Cortiss. Baskets from fouls—Juniors: Lane (2); Freshmen: Axtell. Referees—Heath '21 and Cohen '21. Timer—Cabot '22. Scorer—Jenkins '23. Time of periods—15 minutes.

Muriel Barker '23, received a slight injury to her foot Saturday, which necessitated her leaving college yesterday.

ALBANY MINISTER TAKES UP PROBLEMS OF THE DAY

Rev. Moldenhauer Sees Much That is Unchristian in Present Standards

Rev. J. V. Moldenhauer of the West Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y., was the preacher at the vesper service Sunday.

Rev. Moldenhauer took up in an intimate way some of the problems of the day and their solution by the men and women of this generation. A question which often arises is that of whether there has even been any real progress. People have always had a definite idea of the goal they are trying to attain but increase in knowledge has always been employed for selfish ends.

Looking back over the history of the world we find recurring periods of retrogression. Instead of profiting by such mistakes, we continue to make them. To prevent such lapses we should give more thought to the teachings of Jesus Himself, and less to the theories and interpretations of fanatics.

Rev. Moldenhaurer is known to some Middlebury students because of the fact that he addressed a vesper service here last year and also was present at the Y. W. C. A. convention at Camp Maqua last summer.

Middlebury Chapter of Delta Upsilon

The Middlebury Chapter of Delta Upsilon held its 65th annual initiation followed by a banquet at the Addison House Saturday evening. The alumni present were, E. B. Clift '90, Toastmaster, E. R. Brown '93, J. B. Donoway '93, W. H. Botsford '98, F. W. Cady '99, W. T. Barnard '00, A. W. Eddy '04, W. C. L. Bosworth '11, H. H. Stone ex-'18, C. L. Montgomery '19, G. O. Coolidge '20, A. B. Betsey Buttles Tea House

When you come back again! A thousand ways
We fashion to ourselves the succulence
Of our Spring cooking – there'll be waffles, yes
And the new syrup, as when first in the old days
You came to supper, or to lunch or tea
Or in the evening, as came hunger's sweet distress
Then coffee, and the perfume of tobacco
The room will cloud a little, and haze
Cloy eye sight—while there's music for a space
And the firelight—when the evening's chill,
Will make the room a cheerful place to sit.
We'll find a place for you at any hour
With tables set for two, or four, or more
Until the reservations are complete.

has a daughter whose education is being cared for by an eccentric spiritualistic maiden governess. Mr. Marsland's nephew Henry brings his friend Douglas Cattermole down to his father's place and passes him off as the recently hired secretary. The resulting confusion and misunderstanding furnish the entertainment of the play which is brought to an old fashioned happy ending by the revelation of the true characters.

Rehearsals to Begin in April

Tryouts for the men's parts were held at Professor Burrage's residence on Storrs Avenue last night at eight o'clock and those for women's parts will be held in the same place at seven thirty to-night. The caste will be chosen immediately so as to allow the players to acquaint themselves with their parts during the spring recess, and the first rehearsals on Acts I and II will be held, at an hour and place to be announced immediately after vacation.

PRES. THOMAS DISCUSSES AMERICAN CHRISTIANITY

Redelivers Andover Addresses Last Week for Local Collegians

At four o'clock on Thursday and Friday afternoons of last week Dr. Thomas gave two addresses in the lecture room of the Chemistry Building to students and faculty of the college. The lectures were two which President Thomas had delivered the first of the week in Cambridge, Mass., to students of the Andover Theological Seminary.

The first lecture on "What America Has Done With Christianity", traced the development of Christianity in this country since the time of the Pilgrims, laying especial stress upon the lasting influence of the work of these pioneers. It is due to the earnest effort of the early settlers in America that Christianity has such a firm footing here today. These facts were followed by a careful comparison of the history of Christianity in this country with its earlier growth in European countries.

The second lecture was upon the subject "American Revivals and their relation to Christianity". This showed the work of great evangelists and their great personal influence through appeal to the emotions.

Outing Club Dance

About seventy-five couples attended the informal dance given by the Outing Club Saturday evening in the Gymnasium from seven-thirty to eleven-forty o'clock. The chaperones of the evening were Professor and Mrs. Harrington, Professor and Mrs. Longwell, Mrs. Bonney and Mrs. Lacalle. Music was furnished by the five-piece college orchestra. During intermission coffee and sandwiches were served by members of the Home Economics Club.

Home Economics Club

A meeting of the Home Economics Club was held Friday evening in the Pi Beta Phi rooms. Among other matters brought up at the meeting was the advisability of purchasing a second-hand sewing machine which could be placed in Pearsons and used by all the girls of the college. It was voted to discuss the matter further at the next meeting. The rest of the evening was passed in sewing and doing "stunts". Just before the girls left, ice-cream and wafers were served.

A GREAT GAME

There's a game played by students
From June until Fall,
That is finer than tennis, or golf, or baseball.
It developes the brain as football does grit :
It calls for courage, and patience, and wit ;
But the fellows that win are fellews to cheer,
For they come back with funds for the next college year.
